How does PDCP PACIFIC AUTOCALL work

- The initial value (see Note 2) of the S&P 500 and Nikkei 225 underlying indexes shall be determined on 14 May 2024.
- The observation of the development of the S&P 500 and Nikkei 225 indexes takes place from 15 May 2024 to 14 May 2029 (the daily closing index prices are decisive).
- A yield of 5.75% p.a. of the nominal value of PDCP PACIFIC AUTOCALL is paid out annually for its duration period and is paid out always, i.e. regardless of the development of the underlying indexes.
- The barrier is determined at 49% of the fixed initial value (see Note 2) of the underlying indexes, touching the barrier is not considered breaking it.
- For the duration period of PDCP PACIFIC AUTOCALL, it can be automatically repaid early once a year if at the observation date the value of both underlying indexes will be equal or higher than the comparable value of the underlying index at the relevant observation date.
- If the condition of automatic early repayment is not met, the investor will receive an annual yield of 5.75% of its nominal value and PDCP PACIFIC AUTOCALL continues to the next possible repayment date.
- If PDCP PACIFIC AUTOCALL is automatically repaid early, the investor will receive 100% of its nominal value and an annual yield of 5.75% of its nominal value. With early repayment the claim to later annual yields ends.
- If there is no automatic early repayment and during the observation, the value does not fall of even one of the underlying indexes (daily closing price) below the barrier of 49% of its initial value (see Note 2), 100% of the nominal value of PDCP PACIFIC AUTOCALL and the final fixed yield of 5.75% p.a. of its nominal value is paid out on the maturity date.
